Coroner's Inquiry.

An inquiry into the circumstances surrounding the death of James McPhee, who was found dead at the Moree District Hospital on Wednesday night last, was held before the Coroner ( Mr. P. P. Rosenthal ) on Friday.

Sergeant Eagleton deposed: About 10 o'clock on Wednesday night last, 27th inst., from something I was told, in company with Constable Kearney, I went to the Moree District Hospital. I there saw the deceased, James McPhee, in a sitting position in the bathroom. He had a large incised wound in his throat, and was quite dead. There was a razor ( produced ) lying on the floor in the bathroom, quite close to his right hand. There was a large quantity of blood on the floor and over his clothing, which consisted of a pair of pyjamas, an under and a top shirt, and pair of socks. I assisted to remove the body into the hospital morgue.

The deceased was a stranger in Moree.

To the Coroner: I made a search at the hospital of the deceased's belongings and found a letter (produced) from his wife.

To Mr. Wlllmott (uncle of the deceased): The act was committed in the bathroom. I did not know the deceased.

Dr. Malcolm Frizell deposed: I first saw McPhee about a fortnight ago. He came round to my surgery and told me he was suffering from rheumatism. I advised him to go to the hospital. He was in a very weak state of health and was suffering a lot at pain. He complained of not being able to sleep at night on account of the pain, and I ordered him some sleeping powders.

On Wednesday night, 27th inst., at 10 p.m. I received a message from the Matron at the District Hospital, saying that McPhee had apparently committed suicide in the bathroom. I Informed the Sergeant of Police and went direct to the hospital. On my arrival there I saw McPhee sitting on a chair with his head against the wall. There was a large incised wound in his throat, and the large artery in the neck, the jugular vein, and windpipe were severed. Life was extinct, and death from the injury would probably occur within a few minutes. His right arm was hanging by his side and there was a blood-stained razor lying on the floor within a few inches of his right hand. There was a large pool of blood on the floor, and his clothes were soaked.

The cause of death, in my opinion, was haemorrhage caused by the wound in the throat.

To the Coroner: In my opinion, the wound was self-inflicted.

To the Police: The wound could have been inflicted by the razor (produced).

To Mr. Willmott: I saw the deceased on my rounds every morning at the hospital from the time of admission till his death. I never saw, at any time, any signs of insanity on the deceased.

Margaret Adeline Finn, certificated trained nurse, and matron of the Moree District Hospital, stated that deceased was admitted to the District Hospital on July 14. During the time the deceased was in the hospital he never did or said anything to lead me to believe he would commit suicide. On Wednesday last, 27th inst, I saw him about 8 o'clock. He was then in bed, but was not asleep. I had just given him a sleeping powder. About 25 minutes to ten o'clock I inquired as to his condition and was told that he was sleeping. About 10 o'clock, Nurse Hewson and Nurse Mulheron came to my room and informed me they thought McPhee had cut his throat in the bathroom. I went to the bathroom and found the deceased sitting on a chair with his head against the wall. There appeared to be a large wound in his neck, from which blood was dripping. His clothes were blood-stained. The chair on which he sat was also covered in blood. There were fingerprints in blood on the wall near where he was sitting. I saw a half opened razor on the floor near his right hand.

To the Police: The deceased possessed a razor. I have been informed that he had shaved himself whilst at the hospital. I locked the bathroom door and rang up the doctor.

To the Coroner: During the time the deceased had been under my observation he never gave me any reason to think he was other than an ordinary patient.

Lilian Mary Hewson, probationary nurse at the District Hospital, deposed: On the night of the 27th Inst. I was on night duty. I last saw the deceased in bed about 25 minutes to 10 p.m., in the men's ward. I spoke to him, but he did not answer. I left the room and went to the kitchen. I again returned to the ward about fifteen minutes later. I walked past the deceased's bed and noticed he was not in bed. I went to the lavatory to see if he was there. He was not there. I then looked around the verandah, and could not find him. I then looked around the ward, and not finding him I went to the bathroom. The door was closed. I pushed the door open and saw McPhee sitting on a chair, with his head against the wall. His clothes were blood-stained. I then informed the matron. I then returned to the bathroom and was present when the body was removed to the morgue.

To the Police: I could not say whether he had a razor in his locker or not, or whether he had a shave whilst he was In the hospital. During the time he was in the hospital, he seemed to be quite all right mentally.

George Barrett, shearer, at present an inmate of the Moree District Hospital, deposed: I know the deceased, McPhee, in Sydney. On Tuesday last, 26th inst., I had a conversation with the deceased, about 3 o'clock. I said to him, "Have you done no good regarding your health?" He said, "No." I said, "It is a wonder you don't go back to Sydney, where your friends are." He said, "If I went back to Sydney I would put myself over the Gap." He then said, "I am pretty well a done man, and in so much misery I would just as soon cut my throat now." I said, "Don't talk like that, Jim ; there is always a chance." That ended the conversation.

To the Police: I never mentioned the conversation I had with him to the Matron.

To the Coroner: When he made the threats mentioned above I did not believe he was in earnest or I would have reported the matter.

Jacob Willmott, retired police sergeant, residing at Glebe, Sydney, deposed : I arrived in Moree this morning in company with the deceased's wife, and went to the Moree District Hospital and was taken by the Matron to the morgue. The deceased's wife and myself went in and saw the deceased, whom we identified to be James McPhee. I have been residing in the same house as the deceased and his wife and mother-in-law, also my wife, for about two years. About ten months ago he had a very bad attack of influenza. He was ill for about six weeks. He then went out on the cab rank again and started work. He got wet two or three days following and had to give up work again. He had very severe pains at the back of the head and in his left shoulder. Dr. Sydney Jones was called in and prescribed for him, but he seemed to get worse. He was then taken to the Sydney Hospital, and was later in Little Bay Hospital for eight weeks. He was then taken home. Eventually he came to Moree, on the advice of doctors to try the bore baths – about May 22.

We had several letters from him reporting his condition.

To the Coroner : There was nothing in his letters to lead me to believe that he contemplated taking his life.

To the Police: The deceased was about 39 years of age. The deceased's life was Insured in the T. and G. Insurance Company for about £40. Deceased owned a cab and horse but no harness. He was of temperate habits.

The Coroner found that the deceased died from haemorrhage from a wound in the throat wilfully self-inflicted. He added a rider to the effect that no blame could be attached to the staff of the hospital.

SOLDIER'S ALLOTMENT.,

Solicitor Fined £10,

In the Central Summons Court on Thursday Mr Adrian gave his reserved decision in the case in which Jacob Willmott, of the Garrison Military Police, proceeded against Ernest Robert Abigail, solicitor, of 77 Castlereagh-street, Sydney.

The information alleged that on or about July 25 last the defendant contravened a provision of a regulation made in pursuance of the War Precautions Act, 3914-1916, in that he accepted by way of pledge an assignment of the right of an allottee, one Phyllis Hampsted, sometimes known as May Miller, to receive an allotment from the pay of Henry Miller, a soldier, enlisted for service during the present war.

Mr. Hardwick, who, instructed by the Commonwealth Crown Solicitor, appeared to prosecute, denied that he said at the previous hearing that Mr Abigail had done no wrong. What he said was that the Crown did not allege any sharp practice.

Mr Adrian said he had decided to convict, and taking all the circumstances into consideration, would impose a fine of £10, with £6/12/ costs; in default, one month's imprisonment. Mr Parker, who represented Mr Abigail, said that the latter, who was at present indisposed, intended to contest the matter further.
